

Statement Regarding Absentee Ballots:

Contrary to some reports, the Board of Elections in the City of New York completed Absentee and Federal Ballot Mailings on October 10th for the General Election on November 2. Below, please find a chart that details per borough the distribution of ballots.

The results of New York City’s Primary Election were certified last Tuesday, October 5, which allowed for the printing and subsequent mailing of absentee ballots last week and over the weekend. This year, the certification process took longer than normal due to the implementation of requirements in State law related to the new voting system in New York City. As this was the first time the City has voted with paper ballots, the requirements necessitated a required 3 percent audit of the new voting machines before completing certification, which included for the first time a mandated hand count of ballots.

Although the 2009 Military and Overseas Voters Empowerment Act (MOVE Act) requires military ballots be mailed 45 days prior to an election, New York State as a whole received a deadline waiver to October 1st.

In New York City, this year's primary election was required by New York State Election Law to be held on September 14, 2010. New York Election Law also mandates a seven day post election period during which military and absentee ballots are to be received and canvassed prior to certification of election results. Therefore, the earliest possible date for certification of primary results was September 22nd. Board Executive Management has expressed concern about the conflict of New York State Election Laws and the Federal Move Act, and has referred this matter to the New York State Senate and Assembly for review.

As this was the first time New York City went through the three percent auditing process with the paper ballots, the process was time consuming and resource intensive. The Primary results were certified by the Board of Elections on October 5th, and the Board acted immediately to print and distribute ballots overseas, distributing all 5,145 military ballots (as well as 26,748 federal ballots) starting on October 7th and completed by October 10th. The Board anticipates that this will allow for time for NYC service members to cast their vote for the General Election, particularly since New York State allows for absentee ballots to be counted up to 13 days after Election Day.
